

Highlights of the Week

Our week was not only busy but exciting too. We had Mother's day preparation, ACES day, learning and observing lifecycle of butterfly and Baby washing.

We hope that all mothers had enjoyed our "Muffin with Mom" celebration. One relationship which is always with us is the one we share with our mothers, grandmothers. They are our guiding force, and are responsible for making us who we are. Mothers also shape our lives, our personalities and crediting them for the same is something one should do at every opportunity.

This week our caterpillar (remember - insect family visiting us?) has turned into a pupa (chrysalis). Children are observing how a caterpillar is going through these four stages and turning into a beautiful butterfly.

Doll washing is not only popular with many children, but it's also a wonderful practical life activity. Having a large number of steps is wonderful for the child's concentration and sense of order. They felt a lot of satisfaction at being able to complete a long sequence of steps. Many of the steps are also helpful for care of self.

I am sure your child must have told you about how fun it was exercising and playing together. It was "All Children Exercise Simultaneously day." It is a golden opportunity to celebrate physical activity through fun.

"An adult can assist in shaping the environment, but it is the child that perfects his own being"
